

HORSES DIE IN FLAMES

ELEVEN HEAD PERISH IN BURNING OF ALBRECHT'S STABLE.

Fire Starts in Stable and Rapidly Spreads to Adjacent Buildings, Destroying Them, Too.

The alarm of fire at three o'clock Monday morning was caused by a blaze being discovered in the livery stable of Mr. Julius Albrecht on Broughton street, near Russell street. Owing to the combustible character of the forage stored in the upper part of the stable, the fire made such rapid progress that shortly after it was discovered the entire building in which it originated was enveloped in flames. Police Officer Segrest on his rounds passed the stable and saw no signs of fire, but by the time he got up by the Court-house he saw the blaze and gave the alarm.

The fire department responded promptly and went to work with a will, on what proved to be a very dangerous and troublesome conflagration. For a while things looked squally, and it was only by good and hard work on the part of the firemen that the fire did not do a great deal more damage than it did do. The fire soon spread from the stable in which it originated to the grocery store of Mr. L. E. Williams on the north, and a vacant building on the south, owned by Abial Lathrop, Esq. These buildings were nearly consumed. The store of Messrs. Ayers and Williams next to Mr. E. T. Williams caught several times, but the fire department promptly extinguished the blaze, and thus saved this store.

The fire department had hard work to prevent the fire from crossing Broughton street and getting in behind the stores on the south side of Russell street, which would have been a serious matter. The small buildings on the opposite side of Broughton street from the fire caught several times, as did one or two of the shops of Mr. B. B. Owen, just back of the small buildings, but the fire department successfully put out all these incipient fires and succeeded in confining the conflagration to the immediate vicinity in which it originated, which was certainly good work, when the surrounding of the fire is considered.

Mr. Albrecht had several fine horses in his stable and even of them were burned up along with the building. Three or four were gotten out, but the fire made such rapid progress that it was impossible to save the others and they were suffocated. This is the second time within the last year that horses were burned up in stables in this city. It will be remembered that when the Messrs. Bryant Bros. stables burned some time ago, they lost over thirty head of horses and mules and now Mr. Albrecht loses eleven head of horses by the burning of his stable. The Bryant fire was caused by lightning striking the stable.

Several small houses or sheds in the rear of the buildings burned were also destroyed, but this could not be avoided as they were quite near the larger buildings that were consumed. There is no discounting the work of the fire department. It did well and deserves the well done of every citizen of the city. The origin of the fire is not known. It will be remembered that some months ago Mr. Albrecht lost his dwelling by fire and this time his stable goes up in smoke. He has certainly had his share of hard luck and the sympathy of the community goes out to him. Both of the fires are very mysterious, and no one knows how they originated. Mr. Albrecht's loss is about $4,000 with $1,500 insurance.

Teachers' Association.

Immediately after the address at the Courthouse on Saturday by State Superintendent Swearingin, a County Teachers' Association was organized by the election of the following officers: Prof. C. J. Rast, president; Prof. A. J. Thackston, vice president; Miss L. C. Tatum, secretary and treasurer. An executive committee to consist of the three above officers and Prof. A. C. Daniel, Jr., and S. W. Plunkett, was on motion appointed. About twenty members were enrolled. Every teacher in the county should be a member of the association, which can be made of great benefit to the profession. The next meeting of the association will be held in the Courthouse on Saturday, December 18.

A Delightful Entertainment.

The entertainment given at Culter's Hall at North. Thanksgiving evening by the music class of the North Graded School, was a most delightful entertainment. It was largely attended and a neat little sum was realized to be used on a piano for the music school. The program consisted of two single act plays and delightful musical numbers between. The effort was a worthy one and the success it met with reflects credit on Miss Hafford, who, with her pupils, had worked on the program several weeks. The music feature of the entertainment was especially enjoyed and the musical taste and skill displayed by some young pupils speak high of Miss Hafford's qualities as a teacher.

Happily Married.

Mr. Fred H. Adden and Miss Janie, youngest daughter of Mrs. Emma J. Salley, were happily married yesterday afternoon. We congratulate Mr. Adden on winning such a charming young lady as Miss Salley for a life companion. The young couple have the best wishes of their many friends for a long and happy life.

NEWS FROM BOWMAN.

Fourth Annual Conference of the Orangeburg Circuit.

Bowman, Nov. 29.—Special: The fourth quarterly conference of the Orangeburg Circuit convened at the Methodist church here on Saturday, each church on the circuit being represented by one or more official brethren. There was a small deficiency in a few of the claims, all of which will be met in full before the meeting of the annual conference at Abbeville next week.

Presiding, Elder Charles Smith was present, holding the reins with a firm and steady grip, presiding, as usual, with the ease and dignity of a Bishop. The sermon on Sunday was one of the Presiding Elder's best. All of them are "good, better and best," but this was one of his best, his subject being "The Church," as Christ designated it should be. The preacher was exceedingly choice and elaborate in all of the details suggested by the subject, and was listened to with close attention by a large and appreciative audience.

White House sent the largest delegation of representatives to the conference here on Saturday. They were Messrs. Z. E. Gramling, Julius Gramling, Willie Stroman and Thos. R. McCants.

Capt. A. D. and Mrs. Fair were also attendants at the conference. Capt. "Abb" has officiated in the capacity of reading secretary of the Orangeburg circuit for many years, which position he still holds, never missing a session but a few times; then being providentially hindered by sickness from attending.

The services on Sunday were attended by many visitors from the surrounding country. All of whom were made to feel at home.

Messrs. Shuler and Mittle left for St. Louis last week, where they go to purchase a carload of mules and horses for this market.

GOOD ROADS SCOUTS.

Expeditions From Charleston and Columbia to Meet.

At a meeting in Charleston of the committee on good roads of the Charleston Automobile club Friday night the matter of selecting a route between Charleston and Columbia was considered and it was determined, the weather permitting, for the Charleston and Columbia expeditions to leave the respective cities on the morning of December 8 and meet at Orangeburg, where on that night a good roads' mass meeting is to be held. On the following morning the parties will start out for their respective homes. The plan was deemed more desirable than a straight run through from Charleston to Columbia.

It seemed to be the idea of the meeting that the route this side of Orangeburg should be looked after by the good roads advocates of Charleston, while the other side should be given attention by those in that portion. The Orangeburg good roads advocates will meet the party from Charleston at Harleyville and the Dorchester contingent at Summerville. The Columbia scouts will be similarly met by good roads people of the country at points on the other side.

The movement is expected to result in much good in developing the attention to the roads, and Col. Cosgrove and others associated with him are encouraged in the work by the letters they have been receiving from county supervisors and others on the subject of making a good road between Charleston and Columbia.

Two Great Sermons.

Two great sermons were preached in St. Paul Methodist church on Sunday. Rev. Ward Platt, D. D., secretary of the home mission and church extension board of the Methodist Episcopal church, with headquarters at Philadelphia, preached in the morning, and Bishop J. W. Hamilton, of the same church, who was here as the presiding bishop of the annual conference of his church, and who lives in Cincinnati, preached in the evening. Large congregations were present on both occasions. Both sermons were of the highest order. They were pure gospel sermons, and we feel sure that every one who heard them went away strengthened in their determination to live better and purer lives. They were great sermons.

Made Good Address.

State Superintendent of Education Swearingin came to Orangeburg Saturday and delivered an address on the educational interest of the State in the Courthouse. It was an address that should have been heard by every trustee and teacher in Orangeburg county. In fact, it would have been good for the parents of the school children to have heard it, too. He pointed out some needed reforms in our school system. He called attention to the great strides made since the public school system was inaugurated in this State, but said there were greater heights to climb, before the school system was what it ought to be. The address was good and was enjoyed by all who heard it.

Doing a Good Work.

Miss Llewellyn Kieckley of Bamberg, district secretary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church recently visited North in the interest of the society and met with the society of that church at the home of Miss Lella Livingston Sunday afternoon. Miss Kieckley keeps in touch with her work and her visit to North will much renew the interest in the society. Miss Kieckley is an interesting woman, having traveled in Europe. The King's Daughters takes this opportunity to express its appreciation of her visit.

HAPPILY MARRIED

TWO HAPPY YOUNG HEARTS MADE TO BEAT AS ONE.

Mr. S. P. Knight and Miss Julia Shuler Joined in Holy Wedlock at Parler.

On Thursday afternoon, Nov. 26, at the residence of Mr. Roland G. Moore, of Parler, a large number of the friends and relatives of Miss Julia Shuler and Mr. S. P. Knight assembled to witness their marriage.

When the hour for the ceremony approached, Mr. Roland G. Moore, Jr., master of ceremonies, announced that all was in readiness. The guests at once assembled in the tastefully decorated parlor, and in pleasant expectancy awaited the incoming of the bridal party. First Misses Eva Shumaker and Jennie Shangler entered, and halting in front of a beautiful arch of smilax and white chrysanthemums, separated and stood facing each other. They were closely followed by Messrs. Carl Dantzer and James P. Lawrence, who also separated, each taking his place by his attending bridesmaid. In like manner, the remaining couples entered and taking their places by each other's side, arranged themselves in two rows. They entered in the following order: Misses Lucile Parler and Fanny Knight, and Messrs. Ed. Ulmer and Pres. Hungerpiller; Messrs. Lula and Meta Kirtjohn, and Messrs. Evans Kellar and Felix Shuler; Miss Annie Weeks and Mr. Joe Westbury. Miss Pansy Smoak was escorted to the organ by Mr. Leland Parler, and began to play the wedding march.

Then the groom attended by Mr. William Bardin, entered and took his stand beneath the smilax arch, where he awaited the coming of the bride. She promptly came in, leaning on the arm of Miss Maggie Moore. The bride was dressed in a handsome green traveling suit, and carried in her hand an exquisite bouquet of large white chrysanthemums, tied with white chiffon. The bridesmaids were attractively attired in white, and Miss Moore, the maid of honor, was clad in a beautiful old rose silk chiffon, trimmed with jet.

After the ceremony by Rev. Jno. A. Brunson, the guests repaired to the dining room, where amid handsome floral decorations and with much good cheer, they enjoyed a sumptuous feast.

A large number of presents, consisting of silver, cut glass and china, was received and greatly admired. As the twilight was closing in, the bride and groom left for Charleston, carrying with them the hearty congratulations of their many friends. On their return from their bridal trip, they will live in Eutawville, where Mr. Knight is engaged in business.

Altogether the event was a very pleasant one. The large park of beautiful pines surrounding the Moore residence, the cloudless sky, the soft and balmy air, and the very tasteful decorations, planned and executed by Mrs. D. J. Avinger and Miss Lula Kortjohn, all contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion, and seemed to bestow a blessing upon the happy couple.

Swansea Residence Burned.

The new two-story residence of Mr. J. W. Goodwin, at Swansea, was burned Friday morning. The fire originated above the kitchen and the town being entirely without fire protection, excepting the bucket brigade, the house, from the first discovery of the fire, was doomed. Mr. Goodwin saved most of his household goods, but they are badly damaged. Mr. Goodwin valued his home at $2,000 and carried $800 insurance. The household effects of Mrs. M. E. Johnson, an aged widow woman, were stored in an upper room of Mr. Goodwin's house, and she lost everything. Mrs. Johnson was not in town, but is at the bedside of her son's sick wife in Charleston.

At the Academy of Music.

B. C. Whitney's big and splendid production of "A Knight for a Day," which will appear at the Academy of Music Thursday night, December 2, will more than likely take the house by storm.

The company playing the piece this season is a superior one, and it presents Mr. Whitney's production in a style that is delightful all through. The management of the Academy of Music is to be congratulated on securing so big an attraction, one that won high praise in New York and Philadelphia.

Card of Thanks.

To the Officers and Members of the Orangeburg Fire Department: We desire to offer to you our sincere thanks for your effective and timely services at the fire yesterday morning. We feel that we owe to you the fact that our dwelling house and contents were not destroyed.

Bishop Guerry.

Bishop Guerry confirmed a class at the Church of the Redeemer Sunday night and also preached a sermon. He was greeted on the occasion by a large congregation. The Bishop is a strong preacher and all who had the good fortune to hear him were edified.

BRANCHVILLE NEWS.

Municipal Election Near at Hand.

Other Local News.

Branchville, Nov. 28.—Special: The books of registration for the municipal election in the town of Branchville that will be held on Monday, Dec. 6th, closed last night. Considerable more people have registered this year in town than ever before. This fact is the best evidence to show that Branchville is steadily becoming a larger and more progressive town.

Politics is being talked now on every street corner, where men happen to congregate in town, and things will be pretty warm here in a political way until after next Monday, the 6th, when a mayor and six aldermen will be elected to serve the next two years in Branchville. At present there are only two candidates for mayor, namely, J. B. Williams, Sr., a candidate for reelection, and Louis H. Fairley, one of Branchville's hustling young men who aspires to the office of mayor. The candidates for aldermen are too numerous to mention and there is no reason why a good council cannot be elected to serve as officers for Branchville for the next two years.

Baptist Bazaar a Success.

The good Baptist ladies of this town who held a bazaar in the town hall on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights of the past week, made a complete success of it. There was a nice little amount of money raised by having this bazaar and all of this was done by the ladies (except a small part that the gentleman took in the matter). It looks as if the ladies of this town make a success in anything that they undertake, while their husbands and friends often fail. The bazaar was largely attended each night and everything was carried out in perfect order.

Personal Notes.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Dennis, of Charleston, spent Thanksgiving in town as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Middleton.

The regular meeting of the Orangeburg County Farmer's Union will convene at the County Court House on Tuesday, December 16th, 1909, at eleven o'clock.

On this occasion regular routine business will receive attention, and that important committee that was continued from last regular meeting will be prepared to report.

A full delegation from each local union is desired. Each president of the local unions are earnestly requested to see that their unions have a good representation present.

A Sad Death.

After an illness of a few days, Alice, the beloved wife of Dr. W. S. Jennings, passed away at her home and was laid to rest last Tuesday afternoon, in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends who mourn the death of this lovely Christian character.

Endowed with many noble qualities of heart and mind, she won the esteem and affection of all who came in contact with her.

In her home life, she was a beautiful example of a devoted wife and mother, and her place can never be filled, but she left a dying testimony of a perfect resignation to the will of God, which should emulate us all to follow her example, knowing that she is now enjoying the reward of the righteous, and there "waiting and watching" at the "Beautiful Gate," for her loved ones as they are called home.

She leaves a sorrowing husband and little boy, a devoted mother, sister and three brothers to mourn her untimely death.

"But some day, if we may enter wide Through the pearly portals there, She will be the first to meet us, Over on the other side."

Safe within our Father's mansion, Clad in robes all white and fair, Chanting sweet a joyous welcome, We shall know each other there."

—A Friend.

Gone to Rest.

Mrs. Laura Gavin, wife of G. Washington Gavin, who lives in this county near Cattle Creek Camp Ground, died November 15, 1909. She was born August 1, 1853. She and her husband were among the most respected colored people of that section of the county. They accumulated a nice property. But with all their property, they ever treated their white neighbors with great courtesy and kindness, and in return all their neighbors, both white and colored, held them in high esteem.

Worford's President.

Dr. H. N. Snyder, president of Worford College, was the guest of Capt. B. H. Moss yesterday and last night. The doctor was on his way home from Charleston, where he made an address before the Young Men's Christian Association on Sunday afternoon, to his home at Spartanburg. Dr. Snyder is always a welcome visitor to this city.

SPRINGFIELD NEWS.

Thanksgiving Day Observed Quietly by All Citizens.

Springfield, Nov. 26.—Special: Thanksgiving was very universally observed here yesterday, and was marked by an absence of rowdiness and drunkenness that so often marred the pleasure of the day in years gone by when whiskey was plentiful, and the dispenser couldn't draw his wages unless he sold the goods. Services were held in the evening at the Methodist church, Rev. M. M. Benson of the Baptist church conducting the same, assisted by Rev. G. W. Dukes.

Appropriate addresses were made by Rev. M. M. Benson, Mr. J. B. Smith, cashier of the Bank of Springfield, and James H. Fanning.

This has been a record breaking year for the churches of the town. The Baptist congregation, under the leadership of Rev. Benson, have added many needed improvements, and large numbers have been added to the church roll. The minister has worked in perfect accord with the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. Dukes, who has also made headway in church matters, and will carry a good report to the conference.

Rev. Dukes had a meeting of the lay members of his church a few days ago, and at the meeting the assessment of the church for another year was doubled; thus the successor of Mr. Dukes will receive from this church just double the amount paid the present pastor. This is Mr. Dukes' last year at this church, and the people of the community commend him as an earnest, consecrated Christian gentleman.

Rev. Hillier, of the Lutheran church, has done a good year's work, and the coming synod finds his church in a healthy, prosperous condition. He always has large congregations. He is a strong, vigorous preacher.

Rev. Father Hedden has a congregation here, and while the Catholics have no house of worship at present, regular services are held. He, with Father Lanigan, are well known here, and have many friends in the community.

This has been a year of great prosperity to our people, and the churches of all denominations give thanks to God for the same.

An Aged Mule Gone.

Mr. H. G. Cooper, a wealthy farmer of this section, reports the death of his favorite mule, "Pete," and furnishes the following family history of this justly celebrated "Citizen from Missouri." In the spring of 1881 he bought "Pete" from Mr. Daniel L. Bean, who had worked him for two years, making "Pete" six years old, he having been born in the year 1876.

Mr. Cooper worked "Pete" regularly for 29 years, and made an average of 12 bales of cotton a year, making a total of 348 bales weighing 500 pounds each, or a total of one hundred and twenty-four thousand pounds of lint cotton, which was sold for an average price of nine cents, per pound, making the grand total of fifteen thousand, six hundred and sixty-six dollars worth of cotton made by Mr. Cooper with his mule "Pete."

Mr. Cooper has made no calculation of the corn, oats, peas and potatoes made by this mule, but contents himself with the cotton record made.

This doesn't include the two or three years that this mule was owned by Mr. Bean.

Mr. Oliver C. Salley, one of our most reliable citizens, a man who has made a fortune and retired from active life, was manager for Mr. Bean at the time mentioned, and Mr. Cooper says he will corroborate him in the age of "Pete." This mule raised all of Mr. Cooper's children who are now grown and several of them married.
